

DENTURES? LOOSE OR INFECTED TEETH? CHANGE YOUR LIFE IN JUST ONE AFTERNOON...

In his comfortable dental office in Merrick, N.Y., Dr. Robert A. Coleman transforms patients who walk in with missing, loose or diseased teeth into patients who walk out with beautiful, healthy smiles, all in a matter of hours.

Using the latest Cone Beam CT Scan technology, which provides an instantaneous diagnosis, and an "immediate load" process, Dr. Coleman can replace diseased teeth with a new temporary fixed bridge at one appointment, and then, at another appointment three to six months later, with a final restoration.

With this technique, patients never have to wear a removable denture.

"This is leaps and bounds ahead of the typical scenario of taking out the teeth and putting in a denture," Dr. Coleman said.

"Getting rid of the diseased teeth and walking out with fixed teeth right away is a big deal."

Because he can perform general dentistry procedures, as well as the surgical and prosthetic phases of implant dentistry, under one roof, Dr. Coleman often can help his patients receive all of their necessary treatments in one convenient location, with minimal appointments.

An Expert Opinion

Dr. Coleman has successfully treated more than 300 patients using the "immediate load" approach to implant dentistry. In total, he has been placing and restoring implants for patients for 25 years, and spent 15 years teaching dentists the surgical and prosthetic phases of implant dentistry as clinical director and clinical associate professor at New York University's College of Dentistry.

"Getting rid of the diseased teeth and walking out with fixed teeth right away is a big deal."

Sylvia's Story

Hiding under smoker Sylvia Leonard's smile was an advanced periodontal condition, which had caused severe bone loss, constant gum infections and loose teeth.

Faced with the extraction of all her upper teeth and the insertion of a full upper denture, Sylvia was petrified.

But then she found Dr. Robert A. Coleman.

"In just one afternoon, Dr. Coleman and his wonderful staff removed my teeth and placed six implants, and I left his office with beautiful, new teeth that looked better than the ones I came in with," she said.

After spending the winter on the west coast - without a single problem with her temporary bridge - Sylvia returned to Dr. Coleman's office to have her final porcelain bridgework inserted.

Now a non-smoker, "I receive compliments on my smile all the time, my mouth feels really healthy, and I can eat anything I like," she said.
